

Emory University invites inquiries, nominations and applications for three roles:

- Director, Asian Student Center
- Director, Centro Latinx
- Director, Emory Black Student Union

Reporting directly to the associate dean of students, https://news.emory.edu/stories/2024/01/er\_brown\_associate\_dean\_students\_18-01-2024/story.html, the three directors will serve as key members of the <https://belonging.emory.edu/index.html> (BCJ) leadership team within the broader context of <https://campuslife.emory.edu>. Belonging and Community Justice is comprised of six identity spaces at Emory that serve as a hub of support for students to matriculate to and through the university and includes the <https://race.emory.edu/asc.html>; <https://race.emory.edu/centro-latinx.html>; the <https://race.emory.edu/ebsu.html> (EBSU); <https://race.emory.edu/emory-first.html>, which includes first-generation low-and limited-income student programs such as 1915 Scholars and Emory QuestBridge; the <https://womenscenter.emory.edu>; and <https://lgbt.emory.edu>. BCJ promotes dynamic and cohesive learning by creating space for individual, cultural, and communal development. Belonging and Community Justice's value of ensuring every student belongs and graduates is central to all programming, events, and initiatives within and across respective identity spaces.

The three new directors (along with the new director of Emory First – a role that will be <https://wittkieber.com/positions>) will work closely with the current director of the Center for Women at Emory, the director of LGBT Life and the associate dean of students to facilitate the advancement of the <https://studentflourishing.emory.edu>, a commitment to purposefully integrate key elements of the Emory student experience (academic experience; community and well-being, purpose and meaning; and professional pathways) to intentionally prepare students for a lifetime of service, impact, and meaning. Having recently moved into the Belonging and Community Justice Identity Spaces after a https://news.emory.edu/features/2023/10/er\_identity\_spaces\_18-10-2023/index.html, the new directors will be charged with developing and driving forward a strategic vision for their respective areas. The directors will also develop the associated planning and implementation of programs promoting a university culture of inclusion where students can thrive. The directors will be interested in high-impact program development that prioritizes collaboration with students, staff, and faculty members; high levels of student advising that bolsters student agency, empowerment, and holistic development; the personal and professional development of their students and staff alike; and supporting development and external engagement that bolsters the BCJ area.

The directors of the respective identity spaces will be well-practiced in evidence-based student-centered program development, highly collaborative, and have at least five (5) years of progressive leadership experience working with students from diverse backgrounds. Strong supervisory experience with a goal of engaging and creating purposeful teams, the directors will have a deep understanding of the complexities and challenges in the daily lives of students and will be well-versed in national trends and the critical issues facing a broad range of identities, while applying this knowledge and expertise to the Emory context. The successful candidate will also have a master's degree in higher education administration or a related field as well as at least two (2) years supervising full-time or part-time professional staff and student staff.

Located in Atlanta, Georgia and founded in 1836, Emory University has an international reputation for world-renowned scholarship and research, unparalleled teaching, and a preeminent medical center that provides students with the access to, and opportunity for, hands-on learning experiences with researchers and scholars. A member of the Association of American Universities (AAU) since 1995, the university benefits from collaboration across its nine undergraduate, graduate and professional schools. These schools include the Emory College of Arts and Sciences, Oxford College, Goizueta Business School, Laney Graduate School, School of Law, School of Medicine, Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing, Rollins School of Public Health and Candler School of Theology. With approximately 16,000 students, including more than 8,000 undergraduates and 7,000 graduate and professional students, Emory attracts students from every state and more than 100 countries. In collaboration with student affairs leads in academic units, Directors serve all students from all academic disciplines.

All applications, nominations and inquiries are invited for each of the three director positions. Application to two or more of the roles is welcome. Applications for each opportunity should include, as separate documents, a CV or resume and a letter of interest addressing the themes in the <https://apptrkr.com/5156256>. WittKieffer is assisting Emory University in these searches, which will remain open until an appointment is made for each role respectively. Expeditious application is encouraged for all three positions.

Nominations, inquiries, and application materials can be directed to: Jen Meyers Pickard, Ph.D., Darrien Davenport, Ed.D., Meredith Davis, Ph.D. at the respective emails below:

Director, Asian Student Center
Emory-AsianStudentCenterDirector@wittkieffer.com

Director, Centro Latinx
Emory-CentroLatinxDirector@wittkieffer.com

Director, Emory Black Student Union
Emory-EBSUDirector@wittkieffer.com

Emory University is an equal opportunity/equal access/affirmative action employer fully committed to achieving a diverse workforce and complies with all applicable Federal and Georgia State laws, regulations, and executive orders regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action in its programs and activities.

Emory University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, ethnic or national origin, gender, genetic information, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, and veteran's status.

Inquiries should be directed to the Department of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, 201 Dowman Drive, Administration Building, Atlanta, Georgia 30322. Telephone: 404.727.9867 (V) | 404.712.2049 (TDD).